

Rafting tour down the Kema River

Whitewater rafting down the Kema River, 3rd grade of difficulty. Getting to the river is available by helicopter or by van. The rafting distance is 52 km, with more than 17 rapids and waterfalls on the way. Every year here are held competitions among not only professionals but also among novices. The river flows through a picturesque canyon in Terney Region in the north part of Sikhote-Alin nature preserve. The surrounding mountain tops, untouched nature and wild forest create a magnificent view with excellent opportunities for panoramic photos and videos. Fishermen can catch lenok, loach, brown trout, taimen and grayling with their spinning rods. We raft along the river, making frequent stops to enjoy the view, to have meals and to study the difficult rapids with an experienced rafting instructor before taking them. As we raft down the Kema, dark pines and rocky terrain give way to birch groves and flower glades. Kems kaya taiga has an abundant supply of berries, mushrooms and a variety of living creatures.
